That another election riot in this city would be permanently disastrous to the character and future prosperity is now universally conceded, and hence all good citizens are anxious that her reputation shall not be finally and hopelessly stricken down by the hand of mob violence.

We hope that respectable and good men of all parties will work together in their efforts to maintain order from now till the election. Let no man of any party who is not a bona fide voter attempt to vote. Let no man encourage any such attempt. We trust that no Democrat, native or foreign born, will do either. Let there be no unnecessary crowding, no political discussions or alterations at the polls or elsewhere during the day. A day of order and quiet is imperatively demanded, not only by considerations of humanity, of justice and fraternity, but by the honor, the credit, and the future welfare of our city. Shall we have it?

We call upon every Democrat to avoid saying anything that might subject either him or his party to blame for anything wrong that may occur. We trust that our opponents will feel an equal obligation upon them to save our city from further infamy and disgrace. Belong to what party they may, let every one who may show the least disposition to violate good order be promptly dealt with by the authorities as an enemy of Louisville. And let it not be said, when the election is over, that our single citizen has been insulted in his person or property, or deprived of his legal rights as a voter.

If the authorities and the citizens generally are for peace, there will be peace. We are anxious to have it in our power to announce once more, that Louisville is no longer under mob law, and hope to have that satisfaction. If we do, and we are sure that it will not be the fault of the Democratic party or the Democratic press of the city.

THE STEAMBOAT FRAUD.

The steamboat charge made in this paper on Thursday, that was contended to bring boat-loads of illegal voters from Cincinnati to this city, we publish below a card from Mr. Owings fully authenticating it. Mr. Owings' character places his testimony and beyond impeachment.

For the Louisville Times.

MESSES. EDITORS.—The list of names published in the Courier of Thursday, in regard to the Steamboat transaction, was, you know, entirely without my consent. For the preservation of the social relations that had existed between one of the party, (Mr. Mallory,) and myself, I positively refused to give my assent to that publication.

I had hoped that it would not be necessary for me to publish my own name in connection with this affair, left from the violent abuse by the Louisville Journal of the author of the report to the Courier, as many persons know already who that author is, silence would no longer become me. I do not wish to do Captain Russell injustice, and would not charge him in advance with being guilty of falsehood. I do say, however, that if he denies asking me to go on a steamboat for the purpose of bringing men here to vote the American Ticket, he is guilty of wilful falsehood. If Mr. Mallory denies that he heard this offer from Captain Russell, I shall have to accuse him of the same crime.

So far as the Louisville Journal is concerned, not having known hitherto who was alluded to by the Courier, as the author of the report given, I shall consider its denunciations as nothing, and only ask that they shall not be repeated.

Very respectfully,

J. H. OWINGS.

There was the highest hope entertained yesterday that such arrangements had been made by the Police of the city to preserve order and peace on next Tuesday. Good men of all shades of politics were earnest in insisting that mob law shall no longer disgrace and destroy the city. The Mayor is active in enrolling a Police force sufficient for the emergency, and the Chief of Police seems determined that the laws shall be respected and the good order of the city preserved. We understand that he has given notice to the leaders amongst the mobites, that they will not be permitted to create disturbance on Tuesday, and that we will hold them to strict accountability for their conduct.

The following resolution, adopted by the City Council a short time since, will show that the Police has full power.

Resolved, That the Chief of Police be and is hereby directed to station a sufficient police force at each place of voting in the city of Louisville, and to make all arrangements necessary and convenient to conduct which may occur, and, if the present police force under his command, in his opinion, is not adequate for that purpose, that he summon a sufficient number of citizens to act as special policemen on said occasion.

A few days ago eight hundred and fifty Irishmen were at work on the canal. The greater portion of them have just been discharged, and all the rest are to be discharged today. To what points will they go, and what will they do when they get there?—Journal.

Some weeks since, the work on the Canal was so far finished, that nearly all the laborers were paid off and discharged. About one hundred and fifty were retained. Among these are about thirty who have always been employed on the Canal, and nearly, or quite all the others are steamboat hands, who reside in Louisville, and where the low water has thrown out of work on the river. These are the facts about those men who have been employed on the Canal. They have been laboring hard to support their families, and they are to be applauded instead of proscribed for thus doing their duty, and making themselves useful.

Again and again and again and a hundred times we invoke each political party to prevent any one of its friends from offering a frank and even a doubtful vote on Tuesday. If it be done, there will be no danger of a disturbance of the peace.—Journal.

We sincerely hope that this suggestion will be heeded by all parties. We hope that no one will present himself at the polls who is not clearly and unequivocally entitled to a vote.

Very INDIRECT.—We learn that Col. Hume, Marshall was so indirect as to engage in a discussion at New Castle last Monday, with Dr. Sherrod, an eloquent Indiana Democrat. All admit that the Col. was the worst used up man ever seen in that country.

Dr. N. Green has just returned from a canvass through Henry, Owen, and other counties. The Doctor has done good service during the canvass, and he returns in high spirits and brings the most cheering news.

TO THE PUBLIC.

Having seen an article in the Louisville Journal and other papers relative to myself, I take the liberty to inform the citizens of Louisville that I deny every word in said editorial. On last Wednesday after I left my school, I returned to my lodging, and as it is a habit with me when I go down Market street, stopped at Mr. Carl Ottie's, my friend and companion in youth, I saw two men in said store. When I entered, Mr. Otto introduced me to those two gentlemen. After while, Mr. —— asked me my opinion about the election. I told him what I thought: that Buchanan and Breckinridge would be elected. He remarked, "Mr. Furk, I am a ruined man; I have lost $4,000 on Fillmore, and I believe I will be ruined." He moreover asked me where I came from. I told him that I had lived in St. Mary's County, Maryland, for the last 21 years, and that I had two children living there, (a daughter and a son,) and that I knew that said county, which has always gone for the Whig party, would, in this election, certainly go for Buchanan and Breckinridge.

As far as the Irish and Germans are concerned, who work on the Canal, I never said a word, except that the gentlemen in question asked what we were going to do with them on the Canal. I told him that every one of them, provided he was a citizen of the United States, had complied with the laws thereof, had a right and ought to vote. Mr. —— then remarked,

"We are in favor of letting every man in Louisville vote, but those who work on the Canal shall not vote."

In conclusion, I must say, that I am astonished that Mr. —— should publish our friendly conversation. It is true, Mrs. Ottie told me on Wednesday evening, that said man came to her house and asked my name. I do not deny my name, because there are many of my old scholars and friends from Maryland, here in Louisville, who went to school to me there. They can tell the editor of the Louisville Journal what I am and who I am.

N. FURK.

The Hon. Humphrey Marshall spoke at the Court House last night. We did not hear him, but we regret to learn that his speech was very incendiary in its tone. If Mr. Marshall will consult the better men of his party, he will find that they do not approve the views uttered by him last night.

We copy the following from the Democrat of yesterday morning and fully endorse it.

It cannot be disguised that a feverish anxiety, as to the peace of this country, does not exist, and it will not exist. We believe that efficient means are in progress to put down any disturbance; but some practical suggestions will

1. We hope no one, whose right to vote is really questionable, will offer to vote.

2. Men who do not belong to a party should not crowd the polls; but, if they have one obstructing the way, let them go.

3. Men should not be allowed to take possession of the polls, as has been done heretofore, before the judges are on hand.

4. It is obvious that no outside interference with the rights of a voter should be allowed. The judges should be compelled to decide whether a voter is a voter or not.

5. The legal voters will crowd to get in their votes as fast as possible; but strangers who have no residence in Louisville, and no right of suffrage here, should be prevented from crowding the polls.

6. All coffee-houses should be closed on Tuesday, and remain closed until next morning.

7. Drunken and disorderly persons should be arrested promptly and taken to jail.

8. Parents and guardians should keep minors at home; for they are usually at the beginning of a riot.

9. All good citizens should offer their services to the Mayor, until the number is fully sufficient to meet the order.

10. The order at the polls should be published on the morning of the election, and the names of the post at each place.

We need not say that any attempt to take the polls or drive away legal voters by violence, or to pull them off from the ballot box, will be put an end to the most lawless efforts to keep peace, and on the heads of the party of such infamy will rest all the consequences that follow.

We know that the people of Kentucky are looking to this city with indignant apprehensions. No excuse for a mob will be taken.

Those who will be accounted, and their friends will be held accountable, for that they had not the force necessary to defend the polls, should have a tendency to obstruct voters in the exercise of their right of suffrage, they will be arrested and imprisoned.

The people of the city must be preserved. Law and order must prevail. To secure this, provision has been made, and force will be resorted to if milder efforts will not suffice.

PROCLAMATION BY THE MAYOR.

MAJOR'S OFFICE, Louisville, Ky., Nov. 1st, 1856.

To the citizens of Louisville:

In order to prevent riots and disorderly conduct in the city, on the approaching Presidential election, I have thought it proper, in the discharge of my duties as Mayor, to issue special instructions to the Chief of Police, whereby peace and good order may be preserved in the city; and I do now appeal to all good citizens to aid the officers in the discharge of their duties, and to give every effort to preserve the peace and quiet of the city. Especially do I appeal to and earnestly solicit coffee-house and tavern-keepers and other vendors of spirituous or malt liquors in the city limits to close their places of business on Monday afternoon preceding the day of the election, and to remain closed until Wednesday morning; and during that time to decline furnishing to any one. If this is done, it will greatly contribute to a preservation of peace and good order in the city. It is likewise enjoined upon all parents and guardians to keep their children away from the places of voting; if not away, and they should be in any way disposed to do so, let them do so, and let the police and polls have a tendency to obstruct voters in the exercise of their right of suffrage, they will be arrested and imprisoned.

The peace of the city must be preserved. Law and order must prevail. To secure this, provision has been made, and force will be resorted to if milder efforts will not suffice.

JOHN BARBEE, Mayor.

Order to prevent riots and disorderly conduct in the city, on the approaching Presidential election, I have thought it proper, in the discharge of my duties as Mayor, to issue special instructions to the Chief of Police, whereby peace and good order may be preserved in the city; and I do now appeal to all good citizens to aid the officers in the discharge of their duties, and to give every effort to preserve the peace and quiet of the city. Especially do I appeal to and earnestly solicit coffee-house and tavern-keepers and other vendors of spirituous or malt liquors in the city limits to close their places of business on Monday afternoon preceding the day of the election, and to remain closed until Wednesday morning; and during that time to decline furnishing to any one. If this is done, it will greatly contribute to a preservation of peace and good order in the city. It is likewise enjoined upon all parents and guardians to keep their children away from the places of voting; if not away, and they should be in any way disposed to do so, let them do so, and let the police and polls have a tendency to obstruct voters in the exercise of their right of suffrage, they will be arrested and imprisoned.

The peace of the city must be preserved. Law and order must prevail. To secure this, provision has been made, and force will be resorted to if milder efforts will not suffice.

JOHN BARBEE, Mayor.

I cordially concur in the recommendation of the Mayor to close their places of business on Monday afternoon preceding the day of the election, and to remain closed until Wednesday morning; and during that time to decline furnishing to any one. If this is done, it will greatly contribute to a preservation of peace and good order in the city. It is likewise enjoined upon all parents and guardians to keep their children away from the places of voting; if not away, and they should be in any way disposed to do so, let them do so, and let the police and polls have a tendency to obstruct voters in the exercise of their right of suffrage, they will be arrested and imprisoned.

The peace of the city must be preserved. Law and order must prevail. To secure this, provision has been made, and force will be resorted to if milder efforts will not suffice.

JAMES KIRKPATRICK, Chief of Police.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

The following is a summary of the laws and Constitutional requirements in the election of a President and Vice President:

1. Electors elected on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November.

2. Electors meet on the first Wednesday in December and cast their votes. They then sign three certificates—send a messenger with one copy to the President of the Senate at Washington, the first Wednesday in January—and another by mail to the same person, and the third delivered the United District Judge where elected.

3. Each State provide by law for filling any vacancy in the Board of Electors, occasioned by absence, death, or resignation. Such of the electors as are present are generally authorized to do so.

4. The Governor gives notice to electors of their election before the first Wednesday in December.

5. On the second Wednesday in February, Congress shall be in session and open the returns.

The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Vice President, and of the members of both Houses, open and read the electoral votes.

The Vice President, and the members of the Senate, shall then count the votes.

The person having the greatest number of votes for President, if such number be a majority of the whole number of electors, shall be the President.

6. If no person has a majority as above, the choice is to be made from the three highest returning electors.

The Senate, the House of Representatives, and the electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

7. If neither of the candidates get a majority, the election is to be made by the House of Representatives.

8. If the persons elected are not chosen by the electors, the electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

9. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

10. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

11. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

12. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

13. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

14. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

15. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

16. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

17. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

18. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

19. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

20. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

21. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

22. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

23. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

24. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

25. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

26. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

27. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

28. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

29. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

30. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

31. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

32. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

33. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

34. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

35. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.

36. The electors shall then elect from among the three highest returning electors.
